Picked to Win
To-Day at Delmar.

COMMODORE AGAIN STRONG CONTENDER

Milam's Three-Year-Old Looks
Formidable in Fifth Event on Delmar Card.

NEPENTHE IN THE SECOND.

Aggie Lewis May Carry Off Honors in the Fourth From Lady
Strathmore—Ben Lear
Has a Chance.

Although the fourth race may probably be mentioned as the feature at Delmar this afternoon, the fifth event affords an equally good proposition, and should furnish every bit as good a contest as the race which holds the post of honor on the card.

That another purse will be placed to the credit of the Milam stable seems extremely likely to-day. Commodore is in the fifth race and is one of the most dangerous contenders. Old Stone and Vestry are the two entries likely to give trouble to him.

Vesty has always possessed a remarkable turn of speed, and the Goldblatt interests believe that she is in trim. Older than Commodore, and carrying ten pounds less weight, her chances cannot be overlooked here. Yet Commodore should surely come home ahead in this race.

Old Stone will be greatly aided if the track is heavy. He relishes a soft track as well as hard footing, and may prove a strong factor. On a hard surface a better position than third cannot be accorded to him; but in sticky, soft or mushy going he can surely hold his own.

The third race, the choice of the trio, however, cannot be conceded in advance to Commodore, with Vesty and Old Stone to follow in the order named. Strathmore, and Lewis, seem to be cut out for success, though Strathmore's chances will go up with a rush in the percentage column if the track is soft. She has won a creditable enough race on this kind of going to make him a factor here, in case of similar footing.

Aggie Lewis, Lady Strathmore, and Harriette seem to hold the center of the star power in the fifth race, and particularly upon Aggie Lewis. She was run fairly off her feet by Hubbard in her last race at the distance over the Fair Grounds track, but should be able to something better here.

FOOTBALL AT DRURY.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Spokane, Sept. 11.—Postscript for a strong football team at Drury College are usually fine. As in former seasons the team will be handicapped in the main contests by a lack of weight. Already a few early arrivals are engaging in light daily practice. Real work will begin September 18, with the formal opening of the college year.

At the first meeting Captain Knight's first call for candidates will be answered by a large number of fresh and muscular. A majority of the 40 men will give Coach Mullin a field around which to build.

Mullin, who has already completed his schedule, which includes games with Arkansas and Washington universities, Missouri School of Mines, and the schools of the West and Midwest universities, did not care to compare his team with ours, but we are sure it will be a strong one.

In conclusion, I can win this match with Miss Lumina, but I must say "My buck" will put up $100 on my chance, and Newby will deposit a like amount. The money will be placed in a safe deposit box, which will open when we return to St. Louis. We expect to make the trip in about four months.
